More than half of the blood is plasma. This is a clear, yellow liquid, which carries all the blood cells and chemicals such as hormones and glucose. It is good to know what they do. The answer is: Red blood cells carry oxygen around the body, and collect carbon dioxide and take it back to the lungs where it can be sent out. There are millions of red blood cells in one small drop of blood. Do you know why they are red?! These cells are red because they have a red-colored chemical called haemoglobin. They live for about months. But you should know all the cells in blood are not red. White blood cells are white and they do not carry oxygen, they defend the body against microbes. It is amazing that the number of white cells increases when you are sick.

1. " This" refers to
2. What is the difference between red blood cells and white blood cells?
3. Why our red blood cells are red?
4. When does the number of white blood cells increase?
